Dear Parents,

This week the children have been thinking about everything British. They started the week by giving our class bear Ted's cousin Barty a list of things he could do when he visits England. This moved onto our class election and some interesting discussions on what a 'party manifesto' is. The children had a great understanding, which meant that their own pledges as potential class Prime Ministers were fantastic. Congratulations Amy Williams, who was voted for by the class. As a group they have now come up with an idea for a new race on sports day...involving water!

In maths, the children continued to secure their division written methods and understanding of the inverse operation, multiplication. It is great to see their knowledge of a variety of times tables developing this understanding further.

Please remember that the first week back we have our school trip and if the weather is hot, sun cream and a hat are necessities.

I have explained to the children that cards (pokemon, lego etc) are not allowed in school now, we have had some issues beginning to arise and I would like to nip them in the bud before they escalate. Children have swapped or given cards away and are then getting upset and requesting them back at a later date.

Thank you in advance for your support with this decision.

Enjoy the holidays!

Kind regards,

Mrs Wardle and Mrs Patterson
