

Year 6 letter

Dear Parents,

This week in English, we have continued to read 'The Boy in the Striped Pyjamas.' The children planned and wrote detailed, imaginative recounts and we have also done some tricky reading comprehension. In History, we learnt about why World War 2 started and we found out some information about Neville Chamberlain and Winston Churchill. In Maths, the children started the week working on negative numbers. We then moved on to short division. It soon became apparent that several children need to practise their times tables facts, hence this week's home learning task. We will also be doing tables challenges from now on. We finished the week by solving multiplication and division word problems.

Teacher of the Week

Josh L was this week's teacher. He did a very good job trying to explain the tricky subject of coding.

Home Learning

The children have a double-sided sheet to complete. One side is practising the written method for short division and the other is practising times tables facts. Please encourage your child to practise their spellings too - results this week were not very impressive unfortunately.

A couple of reminders..

- If you haven't already done so, please complete and return the permission slip for the O2 Young Voices concert
- Thursday 5th October is our class Act of Worship. Please join us if you can at 9:00am

Best wishes,

Louise Grinstead
